Trophy, award winners will be named next week

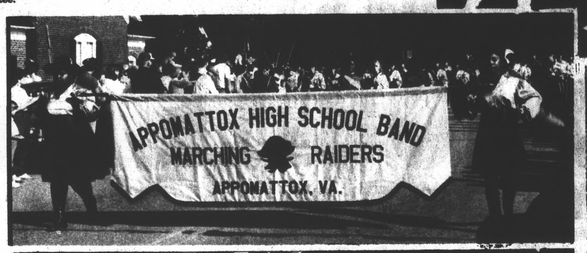
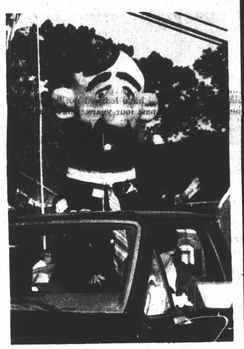
Scenes From 1984 Railroad Festival





Thanks expressed

As directors of the Joe Sweeney 10K race, we want to express our thanks to the many... many volunteers who helped in any way - art work, baking cookies, preparing race packets, setting up the course, working with registration, calling times, working the water stops, photography, the finish line workers, and all who helped with traffic downtown - it's hard to remember each and every spot, but without all of you, this race wouldn't have been a success.

Our thanks and appreciation also go to the Appomattox County Rescue Squad volunteers who manned the race route to aid when necessary; and to all the police officers who helped with traffic control along the route. Without you, we couldn't have had a race - thanks indeed!

We'd also like to thank all those who donated to the race: Wilbun's for the Gatorade; Central Fidelity for the packet gifts; Coca-Cola & Pepsi Bottling Companies for the cups; Pizza Hut for the coupons for the runners; Babcock & Wilcox and the Appomattox Lions Club for their donations to the prize drawing; and Straub's, Athlete's Foot, & Foot Locker for prizes donated. Thanks also go to the Athletic Dept. of ACHS and to the State Highway Dept. for their loan of equipment.

On behalf of all those involved with the Joe Sweeney 10K, we'd like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to Farmers National Bank for their sponsorship. We are indeed grateful for their financial support, which makes this race possible.

Many, many thanks to all who helped in any way.

Sincerely,
Dick and Jane Smith
Directors

Courses set for applicators

HOLIDAY LAKE 4-H EDUCATIONAL CENTER recently received a $5,000 donation from the Campbell County Board of Supervisors. The funds will be used for a new lodge, which is currently under construction. The check was presented by Mrs. Eleanor Evans, a member of the Campbell County Board of Supervisors, to Scott Dawson, vice president of the Holiday Lake Board of Directors.

Next week courses will be offered to those wishing to become certified as Private Applicators and for those wishing to be re-certified.

It appears that six additional pesticides will be classified Restricted Use in 1985; therefore, there may be additional need for producers to become certified.

Producers who have not been certified or who have allowed their certification to expire will be offered an opportunity Wednesday, Oct. 31, 7 p.m. You will need to have studied the Pest Management Guide available from our office. Cost is $4.

There is a 50-question closed-book test associated with this program.

For those producers who have been certified, but whose certification expires Jan. 1, you can be re-certified by attending a program at 7 p.m. on Nov. 1, or 9 a.m. on Nov. 2.

Place for all three programs is the District Extension Office Auditorium (across street from the Courthouse).

I am told that chemical sales are being attempted by an out-of-state organization over the phone. If you get such an offer, it should be suspect. A product being offered would normally contain 38.3 percent active ingredient, but in this case it has 1.95 percent A.I.

While the cost may appear reasonable, it may be very costly. I would be glad to discuss this problem with those who may have received a call.

Hydraulic ram pumps have received renewed interest in recent years. They operate by the energy from falling water and are a good means of providing a continuous low-volume water supply.

At least one manufacturer offers inexpensive units constructed of PVC pipe and fittings.

If you will be using a chimney for heating, don't neglect having it cleaned before using. Chimney fires are damaging and dangerous.

Standard bacteriological water tests are conducted through the Public Health Office. Effective July 1, 1984 it is the homeowners responsibility to take the sample and mail it to the lab. The lab effective July 1 charges $15 per sample.

Total farm debt in the U.S. increased from $166 billion in 1980 to the present level, $215 billion. FmHA holds about 11 percent of all loans to the nation's farmers.

An estimated one million vegetable gardens are grown in Virginia with a value of $400 each. This $400 million crop is the highest value of any agricultural commodity produced in the state.

The Soil Test Lab is currently running 450 samples a day and there is no backlog.

If you have small grain in storage, better keep a check on insects. The warm fall is ideal for insect development.

If you have corn or soybeans to store, be sure to take time to sanitize the storage facility before putting in new grain.

GOOD NEWS IN CROP INSURANCE FOR FARMERS. Farmers in Virginia will benefit greatly from a new innovation in crop insurance now being offered by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC), according to Mahlon K. Rudy, State Executive Director. "It's called Actual Production History (APH), and I think it's going to make the difference for a lot of farmers in our area", Rudy said. "In a nutshell, APH simply means that farmers can now get insurance coverage that is based on the performance of their own farmers, not the average performance of a county," Rudy added. FCIC recently expanded the APH program to include corn, grain sorghum, tobacco, and peanuts for the 1985 crop year. Cotton and rice were included in the program in 1984.

Mahlon K. Rudy learned about the insurance plan during a national FCIC conference in Nashville on Oct. 2-3. The conference was called to further explain benefits of the APH program to more than 250 national and state leaders from both government and the private sector, including officers of commerical insurance companies and agencies selling crop insurance.

"We have turned the crop insurance program into the number-one risk protection device available to all farmers," said Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block who delivered the keynote address at the conference. "And it will remain the number-one program to help farmers reduce their risks."

"By replacing the old county average yield system with a system of actual production history, farmers will at long last receive production guarantees commensurate with their proven ability to produce," Block said. "Without this very fundamental change, I am convinced that crop insurance would have remained stagnant for years. With it, I am confident that the future of the program is very bright."

Farmers wishing to discuss the APH program and how it can improve their risk management needs, should contact the local ASCS office or crop insurance agent.

Writer says Reagan pulls wool over Americans' eyes

Editor:

The 1984 presidential election is just two weeks from today. Our pollsters are telling us that the present White House tenant has a commanding lead. Like everything that I have heard from Washington since Jan. 20, 1981, this is frightful news to me.

Our current White House Tenant keeps talking about how he has cut income tax. Listen, Americans, did you know that the fact is that the man making in excess of $300,000.00 has had his tax lowered from 70 percent to a maximum of 50 percent, a whopping $60,000.00 per year, while the wage earner making $250.00 per week has only had his taxes reduced by less than $20.00. Can anyone say that this is fair? I cannot. Who does the current Administration think that they are fooling?

Did you watch the debate Sunday night, Oct. 7, 1984?Mr. Reagan kept trying to drive home the fact that he had helped to lower the interest rate from 21 percent to 13 percent. He was quoting the prime rate, which means very little to Mr. and Mrs. Average America. Have you tried to borrow any money lately? Interest rates on home mortgages are very little, if any lower today than they were four or five years ago. From my early youth I have been taught that the American Dream of homeownership was the bulwark of good citizenship. I think we have come to the point and time in history when homeownership is only for the very rich.

I have learned nothing else in the past four years, I have learned myself that peanut farmers make better Presidents than second-rate movie actors.

I urge all Americans to think again, can this nation afford four more years of having the wool pulled over their eyes? Can we continue another four years of disregard for our Constitution and Bill of Rights such as having 471,000 disabled people having their benefits taken from them without trial? I do not believe we can.

Patrick Henry said, "Give Me Liberty or Give Me Death." As I see it, handicapped and disabled Americans could say "Free us from the Schackles of Reaganism."

Sincerely,
J. Robert Jamerson

List of qualities voted for stronger families

The list of qualities for a strong family can go on and on. Remember that strong family units are the backbone of a strong democratic nation. It is extremely important that families stick together, work together, play together, pray together.

Do you treat your family member like your best friend? This would be a good yardstick measure for you to follow. If you have children who may be constantly bickering and fussing with each other, why not ask them to start treating each other like they would treat their best friend. You'll be surprised how this simple little method works.

Yes, families can be made strong today. Families have many pressures today, but let's work to make our family unit strong.

If you have a homemaking question or problem, you may call 352-8244 or you may write P. O. Box 488, Appomattox, VA 24522. It is always a pleasure to hear from you and to help you.

Have a good week!
